Research Projects (last triennium)

2016 - Present      Rede Mineira de Patrimônio Cultural (Cultural Heritage Network of the State of Minas Gerais)

Description: This project proceeds with the construction of this network that comprises the state of Minas Gerais, Brazil, and whose main goal is to contribute to the exchange of information, the advancement of knowledge in the area, as well as to the strengthening of the installed capacity in the entities for ST&I. The creation of the Cultural Heritage Network of the State of Minas Gerais (RPC-MG) aims to integrate researchers from the State by minimizing regional distortions and inequalities and stimulating the development of quality research projects that result in the projection of activities in the field of chemistry in our State. RPC-MG will have as its initial nucleus five federal universities, working together on several research projects in different areas of cultural heritage. In this specific pilot project, which will bring together researchers from several partner institutions, a uniform system for treatment, computerisation, cataloguing, sharing and electronic management of information on cultural heritage will be developed and implemented, with a view to giving public access and disseminating information produced in the area. In order to do so, besides the consolidation of the computer database that has been developed by UFMG and the analysis of the various platforms available for information processing (GIS / IPHAN, ARCHES / GCI-GETTY), the project proposes to develop a Cultural Heritage Thesaurus in Portuguese. In addition, the RPC-MG will develop a portal that will both serve researchers and disseminate systematized and produced knowledge to the public. Thus, this is a pilot research project, designed as an initial implementation project, to be developed by the RPC-MG researchers in 36 months' time, involving researchers from six universities in Minas Gerais - UFMG, UFJF, UFOP, UFSJ, UFV and UFU – as well as the international partnership with researchers from the Latin American Architecture Documentation Centre (CEDODAL), based in Buenos Aires.

2016 - Present Dádiva, Comida e Mineiridade: estudo da hospitalidade no Festival Comida Bi Buteco em Belo Horizonte (Bestowal, Food and the mineiro way of living: a study of hospitality in the Comida Bi Buteco Festival in Belo Horizonte).

Description: The offering of food and drink is one of the historical practices of hospitality grounded by the symbolic act of giving something of oneself to the others. This type of endowment can be understood in the light of Marcel Mauss's theory of the gift (2008) and its system of exchanges: giving-receiving-reciprocating. The mineiro way of living (mineiridade) is represented by the typical food made in Minas Gerais and is present in the Brazilian social imaginary as a practice of human welcoming and its bond with domestic warmth. This research project intends to study the Comida di Buteco Festival (neighbourhood bars competing to see which one makes the best bar food), in Belo Horizonte, as a social and anthropological act. The objective is to understand the possible hospitality exchanges among the public in the face of group feeding in commercial and urban environments. The methodology is based on qualitative-quantitative research with the public attending the event in a random and non-probabilistic sampling. Finally, it is expected to consider the existence of the relation of gifts offered by means of typical food during the Comida di Buteco Festival as contemporary hospitality - a product of an old tradition invented by people from Minas Gerais and their way of living.

2016 - 2017	A acessibilidade e suas práticas de hospitalidade na cidade-patrimônio de Ouro Preto (MG) para pessoas com mobilidade reduzida: estudo de casos do Centro de Atendimento ao Turista e do Museu da Inconfidência (Accessibility and its practices of hospitality in the heritage city of Ouro Preto (MG) for people with reduced mobility: a case study of the Tourist Service Centre and the Museum of Inconfidence)

Description: In view of the touristic potential of the city of Ouro Preto, in the state of Minas Gerais, Brazil, and the urban dynamics of its community, in interface with its cultural heritage, it is indispensable to analyse the accessibility practices and their hospitality practices that the Tourist Service Centre Bus Station) and the Museum of Inconfidence (located in Tiradentes Square) present for tourists and local residents with reduced mobility. The first place was chosen for being the main means of transport of arrival to the city along with its tourist information office, and the second one was chosen by the symbolic importance of this heritage and its location in the historic centre. The methodology of this project of scientific initiation is based on bibliographical research from books, articles, dissertations and theses in the areas of heritage, accessibility and hospitality, as well as documentary research from historical archives of the city. Nevertheless, a qualitative research will be carried out with people with reduced mobility (tourists and residents), with the Secretary of Tourism of Ouro Preto and with the Director of the Museum of Inconfidence. The result of this interdisciplinary research can help these two groups examine both their ability to accommodate tourists and residents with reduced mobility and possible sensorial improvements of their accessible practices as an essential element of public hospitality.

2016 - 2017	O turismo e a gastronomia paulistana: a viabilidade de um roteiro turístico cultural (Tourism and gastronomy in São Paulo: the feasibility of a cultural touristic route)

Description: With the intention of potentiating a given identity and exploring the gastronomic knowledge of a city, research techniques in the field of Tourism can be used in order to trace the difficulties and possibilities of this sector. In this particular research project, this process must occur in the city of São Paulo (SP) due to the gastronomic potential in the food and beverage sector. The methodology is based on bibliographical research and qualitative and quantitative field research in loco. The results can help the public and private management in the execution of gastronomic itineraries, and strengthen the identitary roots of the gastronomy of São Paulo and its hybrid culture derived from the immigrant character and the social imaginary.

2014 - 2016      A Epistemologia do Sistema do Dom e sua interface dentre a Prática da Hospitalidade na Mineiridade (The epistemology of the Gift System and its interface between the practice of hospitality in the mineiro way of living)

Description: The anthropological character of Marcel Mauss's Essay on the Gift places the notion of the theory of exchange in ancient societies as the common denominator of human exercise by means of the triad giving, receiving, and reciprocating. This theory analyses the potlatch ritual as total benefits in the sense that the clan used this system of rules to live in society. We begin from the assumption that the gift system is as modern and contemporary as the characteristic of archaic societies, since it does not only concern moments isolated from social history. We have in mind that the epistemic study of sociology and anthropology is indispensable for teaching and research in hospitality. We insert here hospitality as an instrument of social exchange capable of accepting the being in its impossibility or in programmed actions that extrapolate the relations of commercial contracts. We conduct qualitative interviews in loco with Brazilian, French and Anglo-Saxon authors in order to understand their lines of thought in academic praxis. Such a theoretical argument still served as a basis for analysing the forms of reception by people from the State of Minas Gerais - the "mineiros", both in their relation of exchange with the naturalistic travellers in the past society and in the welcoming system by university student houses of the city of Ouro Preto in contemporary times. It is concluded that the mineiros' affective power penetrates the social fabric of the protagonists in a timeless bestowal relationship, although this does not necessarily imply civility in urban welcoming or professionalism in the commercial field. The researches and activities carried out in this project intend to indicate that hospitality, from the point of view of the gift, should be better grounded among the classical authors in order to encompass the complexity of the field to go beyond its empirical studies and superficial intellectualism.

2013 - 2014      Hospitalidade e Gênero: relações domésticas e comerciais (Hospitality and Gender: domestic and commercial relations)

Description: This research project seeks to analyse the relationship of gender and hospitality, essentially, in the field of hospitality at home and in the means of lodging, punctuating which functions are performed by each gender in the historical sense and its transformations in the world of contemporary work. In a theoretical sense, the importance of understanding the customs and expectations related to hospitality in the cultural context is verified in Mauss (1990). Such assumptions of the giving-receiving-reciprocating triad are part of the thematic analysis of this research project. Domestic hospitality and its intertwining with commercial hospitality are related when verifying how the greater identification of women with the domestic environment occurs, while men have a predominance in the extra domestic environment - identifications, both historically and socially constructed - provide opportunities for women's role in the field of commercial hospitality. The objective is to investigate, through secondary sources, the gender-based exercise in Brazilian lodging facilities and then compare it with the lodging facilities of Ouro Preto (MG) with primary data collected in the field. It is also intended to verify the importance of the roles played by women in the formation of the executive personality of the managers of the hospitality area. Such results can guide the development of the human resources of the hotel sector, and reflect the social transformations of the genres in the domestic environment.

2013 - 2014      O Comportamento Sociocultural dos Turistas em Ouro Preto (The Socio-Cultural Behaviour of Tourists in Ouro Preto)

Description: With the imbalance between work and leisure, the tourist tends to consume the space visited by knowing as many places as possible in a shorter time, thus putting rules and norms in their moment of rest. The objective of this research project was to understand the relationship between cultural tourism and its sociological aspects in an interdisciplinary way. This research began, in the first moment, from a bibliographical survey of authors regarding the sociology of tourism. Such theoretical discussions enabled the development of the theoretical framework. When analysing the social behaviour of the tourist and dealing with work and leisure relations, everyday and anticotidian relations, besides the ways in which the trip is carried out, the relationship between the tourists and the local people was considered. These factors guided the analysis of the process of tourists' enjoyment in the colonial city of Ouro Preto (MG). In the second phase, a qualitative and quantitative field survey was carried out in a non-probabilistic random sample, formed from the application of a structured questionnaire to the tourists who visit Ouro Preto. It was concluded that the exhaustive routine of visitation, coupled with the way information is transmitted, contributes to the fact that this trip does not meet its basic leisure need. It is a fact that the journey has become an extension of the daily life, thus not providing playful forms of fruition, but rather, mere consumption. It is necessary to rethink the forms of travel with elements of enjoyment and education for leisure.
